Task 2

Dear Diary,

The war is finally over! Phew! I was so ~~worried~~ worried that I was going to be captured and put in prison or worse that all happen to my sister! I ~~am~~ was in pure horror and terror every single night ~~thinking~~ being awake think of all the carnage that I would awake to. Sometimes, when I heard the bombs, I did not think there would be a tomorrow to wake up to. My parents use to try and to my and my sister up but we could see past ~~than~~ their fake smiles into their eyes, which looked sick with worry, the dead soldiers reflected in their tears.

But now I feel free. Free to run around in the streets, free to see my friends / family, free to live my life! Celebrating with the royal family was ~~epic~~ majestic. ~~I~~ I swear I saw princess Elizabeth in the crowd one time! Me and my sister made Union jack bunting to ~~hang~~ A hang all along the streets. I met up with some friends I hadn't seen in years and we all played a great game of dominos (which I won). It was all so very exciting. At dinner we all went into the streets to lay out chairs for everyone. When ~~the~~ finally, ~~the~~ their was food put on the table it was all on plates in about 2-3 minutes. That was by far the nicest meal I have had in a bout 5-6 years (Since the war started). I don't know if it was the warm food or if it was ~~the~~ the fact that ~~to~~ we were all together again but I suddenly felt at peace.

Sorry got to go now Sincerly,

Esme
